

Proprietary Private Security Officer (PSO) Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1. Can I carry a firearm, baton, and/or pepper spray while licensed as a Proprietary Private Security Officer (PSO)?

No, a PSO is an unarmed individual and cannot carry a weapon.

2. Is there a training requirement when obtaining a PSO registration?

Yes, the PSO must complete 16 hours of training within the first six months of receiving the PSO registration or within six months of the date of hire by the PSO's employer. The training consists of two hours of Powers to Arrest, two hours of Weapons of Mass Destruction and Terrorism Awareness, and twelve hours of security related courses as outlined in the Skills Training Course for Proprietary Private Security Officers¹.

Additionally, a PSO's employer is mandated to provide each employee with an annual two-hour training specifically dedicated to the review or practice of security officer skills.

3. At what point am I required to obtain a PSO registration?

With some exceptions, when you are working exclusively for one employer, your primary duty is to provide security services for your employer, your services are not contracted out to any other entity or person, and you meet both of the following criteria: (a) you are required to wear a distinctive uniform clearly identifying yourself as a security officer, and (b) you are likely to interact with the public while performing your duties. Review *Private Security Industries- Who Must Be Licensed*² for additional information on requirements for licensure. For exceptions to these requirements, see Business and Professions Code (BPC) Section 7574³.

4. What forms and documents must be included in the application packet?

- a. *Application for Proprietary Private Security Officer*⁴
- b. Application fee⁵
